Bush vows to use all resources in a war between freedom, fear

A time to offer and solicit support

By David M. Shribman

WASHINGTON — He came to seek comfort — and to harden the resolve of others. He came to seek support — and to provide it.

But the officials emphasized that Ashcroft said he did not have specific details of any potential targets in Boston, nor what kind of weapons they may be using.

Terrorism, Page A10

Military buildup intensifies in the Mideast

Military maneuvers came as the Bush administration continued diplomatic efforts to win support for a massive retaliation against terrorist groups.

Terrorism, Page A27

President names adversaries and sets security plan

By Anne E. Kornblut

WASHINGTON — President Bush, declaring a new "crisl moment," said last night that the nation is ready to fight and is a presidential pledge to bring the perpetrators of US attacks to justice.

The speech, which ran half an hour and was watched throughout the United States and the world, wound up in minute-by-minute, a significant strengthening of the government’s position on the war on terrorism.

Allies, critics say Clinton fell short in terror fight

By Brian McGrory and Michael Kravna

WASHINGTON — The dual terrorist attacks in America and Afghanistan proved to be a turning point in the war on terrorism.

The lifting of us travel restrictions, have been crippled by last week’s attacks.

Few taking shuttle flights to N.Y., D.C.

By Naomi Aski

Airline shuttles to New York and Washington, the primary target of last week’s terrorist attacks and analysts don’t expect the hard-pressed to rebound anytime soon.

The attacks echo those of thou-

Hardy&dangerous

A weary firefighter meeting the dawn after a night of searching in vain for bodies in the rubble of the World Trade Center.

The Boston Globe Friday, September 21, 2001

SPRINKLER SYSTEM

Today: Showers ending in

Tornado: 'Pretty scary', above

Heat index: 2.5 to 2.7, in. 3:45 p.m.

Full report: Page B2